The only other serious break reported by the Postal was between Potershurg and points East. Communications with these points was restored at noon. The Western Union escaped with only a few breaks and was able to take care of Northern and Eastern business with only slight delays. Most of fits trouble was with the lines running south of Richmond, but all of these were reported in working order last night.

Both the Postal and Western Union reported last night their inability to take care of messages destined for the West, particularly the flooded area. All matter for this section of the country is being relayed along wide detours, and messages are compelled to await their turn, with no guarantee as to the time of delivery. It is believed, however, that the worst is over, and that full communication with, storm-swept areas will be established shortly.

At the very apogee of the spectacular in dramatic representation stands "The Daughter of Heaven." All that the skill of the carpenter, the science of the electrician, the art of the painter, the patience of the designer, and the meticulously painstaking care of the costumer, which is akin to genius, could siggest; all that could be, and was suggested by mechanics, artists and artisans purchased with a lavish hand, and all put together, made harmonious, presented, and managed by masters of stage craft—all this is to be found in the magnificent spectacle blazing under the banner of the Liebler Company at the Academy of Music.

Kidney Trouble Vanishes PRISONER IS SHOT BY ZEPEDA'S ORDE

Serious Floods in Rivers.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Bristol, Va., March 27.—An all-night rainstorm throughout the Appalachian-region resulted in serious floods in the rivers and smaller streams, which brought heavy property loss. Trains were delayed many hours, due to washouts and damages to trestles. Part of Bristol's business district was flooded, the water covering the floors of the business houses. Families residing along the stream were rescued by the firemen in the early morning, and some of the aged people narrowly escaped drowning. Trestles were out of line on the Virginia and Southwestern Railway, and bridgenen were kept busy in the mountain region. The rivers are still rising, and further serious damage is feared.

Some time ago I was troubled with what the doctors pronounced to be floating kidney. I was completely run down and so weak and exhausted that I did my housework one day I would have to stay in bed the next. I doctored with several physicians and they all told me that my kidneys would never be well. I decided to try Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and found that I got relief. I continued to use the Swamp-Root, and to-day my kidneys are in fine shape and I am enjoying in fine shape and I am enjoying the best of health.
